

A BEGINNER'S GUIDE BY YULIANNNA RODAK

Your First Weeks in the Gym

Everything you actually need to know — and nothing you don't.

10-minute read

Zero experience needed

Yours to keep

YOUR PATH, AT A GLANCE

For women starting from absolute zero. You are not behind.

Your First Month

Five stops. That's the entire journey.

1

BEFORE YOU GO

Pack the basics

Comfy clothes, water, flat shoes.

2

DAY 1

Get through the door

Warm up, the six moves, cool down.

3

WEEKS 1-2

Learn the machines

Same six moves, twice a week. Go light.

4

WEEKS 3-4

Add a little weight

Three times a week. Eat and sleep well.

AFTER THAT

Build on it

A plan made for you, not a template.

WHAT YOU'LL ACTUALLY DO

The Only 6 Moves You Need

All on machines. Instructions are printed on every one.

Leg Press

Push the platform away with your whole foot. Legs and glutes.

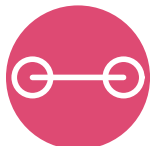

3 × 10

Lat Pulldown

Pull the bar down to your chest, elbows low. Back and arms.

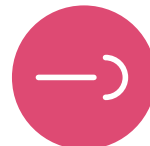

3 × 10

Chest Press

Push the handles away at chest height. Chest and shoulders.

3 × 10

Seated Row

Pull the handles to your ribs, shoulder blades together.

3 × 10

Hip Thrust

Upper back on the bench, drive up through your heels. Glutes.

3 × 12

Plank

Forearms down, body in one straight line. Hold. Core.

3 × 20 sec

Start on the lightest plate. Once the last 2 reps stop feeling hard, add a little weight.

WORTH KNOWING

The Bits That Matter

Read these once. That's genuinely enough.

THE WORDS ON EVERY MACHINE

Rep One full movement – down, and back up again.

Set A group of reps, then you rest 60–90 seconds.

3 × 10 Three sets of ten reps. That's the whole notation.

FUEL & RECOVERY

Protein

A palm-sized portion at every meal.

Water

About 2 litres a day, more on gym days.

Sleep

7–8 hours. This is where you get stronger.

Steps

7–8,000 a day, outside of the gym.

IS IT MEANT TO HURT?

✓ A dull ache for a day or two afterwards – that's normal, and it fades.

✗ Sharp pain, or pain in a joint – stop the set and ask staff to check your form.

IF YOU FEEL NERVOUS

"It's my first week — could you show me how this one works?"

Say this to any member of staff. It is their actual job.

Nobody is watching you – everyone is counting their own reps.

WHAT COMES NEXT

Ready for a plan built around you?

Real progress comes from a plan built for your body, your schedule and your goals – with someone keeping you consistent.
